Full Access to The New York Times for Free

To cut costs this year, we have dropped our subscription to the daily print edition of The New York Times. But did you know that it's easy and free to read The New York Times online -- from home or in the library -- by just redeeming an access code? Read in English, Spanish, or Chinese!

In the Library (on library computers or library wifi):

Go to <http://www.thayerpubliclibrary.org/databases-news> and choose The New York Times.

You need a New York Times online account in order to access the newspaper. If you do not already have an account, choose "Sign Up" to create an account with your personal email address and a password. If you already have an account, choose "Log In" and enter the email and password for your existing account.

From Home:

https://nytimes.com/subscription/promotions/lp3FURL.html?campaignId=7978X&gift_code=c7104d0a722a7131. You will be taken to a page with a one-time-use access code. (Pro Tip: Bookmark or "favorite" this page on the device you'll be using to read the Times, so you can find it easily whenever you need to renew your free access.) Click the blue "Redeem" button. The access code will give you 72 hours of access to the complete New York Times online.

If you are already signed in to a New York Times online account, you will now have access to articles. If you have not signed in yet, you will be prompted to sign in. (If you do not have an NYT account, you can create one now. The account only requires an email address and a password.)

To read the newspaper in the free New York Times app, follow the same steps for setting up an account and getting a 72-hour access token, then open the app and start reading.

New York Times Cooking & Games

To access NYT Cooking and NYT Games for free, you will need to redeem different codes from the one for The New York Times articles and opinion pieces.
